The v-model Directive

- The v-model directive creates two-way data binding between a user input and a data property.

- We can manually configure this functionality by v-binding to the value attribute and reacting to the input event with v-on:input (aka @input).